X-Tempo Designs, LLC Announces New Pricing for Educational Institutions and Non-Profits

Los Angeles, CA, March 1, 2009 -- X-Tempo Designs, the manufacturer of the X-Tempo pok, announces its Academic Discount Program for students and educational institutions. The X-Tempo Academic Discount Program is available to current students and qualified educational institutions including: public and private universities, colleges, community colleges, junior colleges as well as school districts, administrative offices and boards of education that purchase for the aforementioned schools. This program provides substantial discounts on all orders. There is no minimum purchase or contract required to take advantage of this program. "I am pleased to be able to provide this Academic Discount Program to schools and educational institutions around America", says Trevor Nathaniel, X-Tempo founder and CEO.

The X-Tempo pok is the first foot-operated wireless remote control for digital audio workstation computers. It is a robust and high quality foot controller that has been specifically developed for self-recording musicians and stage performers using Mac or Windows-based digital audio workstations.

American-made and engineered by musicians for musicians, the pok is a useful product designed to meet a real stage and studio need. For further information about the new pricing for Educational Institutions and Non-Profits, please visit www.x-tempozone.com.
